

TRANSCRIPT PREPARED BY THE CLERK OF THE LEGISLATURE
Transcriber's Office

April 26, 1999 LB 630

acknowledge that they knew that this was what it was headed toward or they might not. But human beings do not exist as little,...

PRESIDENT MAURSTAD: One minute.

SENATOR CHAMBERS: ...separate entities like a farmer or a merchant, and somehow being in that capacity of seeking a living in that way chops off all the other aspects of humanness. You no longer are susceptible to the strains and stresses that can disintegrate a person's personality and drive him or her over the edge. We, too many times...maybe I better put my light on.

PRESIDENT MAURSTAD: Senator, you've already spoken three times.

SENATOR CHAMBERS: I'll put it off.

PRESIDENT MAURSTAD: Senator Vrtiska.

SENATOR VRTISKA: Thank you, Mr. President. I give some of my time now to Senator Wehrbein.

PRESIDENT MAURSTAD: Senator Wehrbein.

SENATOR WEHRBEIN: Mr. President and, thank you, Senator Vrtiska, I will...this is the last time I'll speak on this since my time is up too. I much prefer my LB 630 in its present form to Senator Wickersham's and I wanted...I appreciate Bob's discussion of this and I will say if...if his does not pass I will add the same language that we just added to his in terms of converting to cash rent equivalent so that it would be share rent or cash rent, I...which was really my intention to start with, so you know that. Senator Chambers, I'm not going to speak directly except a couple comments on the times. This bill does try to be up to speed in what it takes today. I was not going to talk so much about the state of agriculture as I am later on. I have a bill coming up that establishes a task force to face some of the issues you're talking about. But mine is intended to be bigger than just the picture of young farmers because I believe we need agriculturalists out there starting across the state as well do all businesses, as we do all businesses across that state as far as economic development.
